

Napersoft and DocuSign Streamline Straight-Through Processing

Integrated Solution Combines Document Creation, Distribution and Electronic Signature to Reduce Transaction Cycle Times, Accelerate Revenue and Lower Costs

Naperville, IL—October 11, 2011—Napersoft, a leading provider of Customer Communication Management (CCM) solutions, announced today an enhanced partnership with DocuSign, the global standard for electronic signature, to streamline straight-through processing to significantly reduce transaction cycle times, accelerate revenue, and lower costs for customers.

“With the combined Napersoft and DocuSign solution, documents are automatically generated and tagged for eSignature with secure authentication and signature workflows handled electronically,” said Steve Chamberlin, vice president of sales and marketing at Napersoft. “Our integration reduces the time for our customers to complete transactions from days to minutes.”

“DocuSign’s eSignature solution integrated with Napersoft helps customers finish business faster,” said Dustin Grosse, chief marketing officer at DocuSign. “Our partnership streamlines straight-through processing so customers can accelerate sales cycles, decrease time to revenue, and lower costs using the easiest, fastest, most secure way to get a signature.”

Napersoft CCM automates the creation and distribution of all document types, including complex agreements and policies that require signature. With seamless integration to any customer application, Napersoft CCM creates and distributes personalized documents in seconds through standard templates and easily configured business rules.
